A STARILING EXPERIENCE. - An old game bler, who was reduced to poverty by a rather protracted run of bad luck, obtained a position of street-par driver. He had been so accustomed to playing cards that be could never divest himself of the idea that he was not playing his old trade at all hours of the day. A large, stout lady entering his car not long since forgot to deposit her fare. After waiting a reasonable time the driver stopped his car and said respectfully:

"I want to see your antie"
There was a pause of about three seconds and then the cyclone struck. With one stal-wart swipe of her parasol, she caved the gen tleman's hat down over his ears, and in a kind of a backward thoust, nearly dug out the eye of a school superintendent just behind The presengers made a break for the rear door, and the condriver stumbled off the front steps. Thu stout woman was mon arch of all she surveyed. With blazing eyes and arms waving like a wind-mill, she shouted:

"Wast to see my an ie, do yeu?"
"No, by thunder, I don't!" yelled the driver, looking at her from the sidewalk,

where he had ignominiously fled.
"Want to see any of my relatives, you vite scoundrel? Where's the superimendent?" "No, I don't want to see another darried one of them."
"I've a notion to come over there and flush the gutters with you, you villate, but I must be getting along home," and picking up the dismounted from her from packing up the dismounted from her from packing. The crowd yelled and the driver limited up the street and again boarded hisear. Heresfer he will make a street outs effort to abstant from the use of technical terms in the discharge of his dulys as here of the street out. charge of his dulies as o as of a street car. inhit-month year of its existence and is not only the oldest paper in the State, but, with very lew exceptions, in the country. Notwithstanding the fullness of its years, it by kept, and will confloue to keep abreast of the furnishing its readers daily with a perfect mirror of passing events, domestic and foreign. Its facilities for optaining news as they increase are taken advantage of and used for the benefit of its readers, who are thus kept thoroughly posted as to all that is of interest politically, socially, financially and commercially. Special attention is given to matters concerning the State and its welfare, while its local columns contact andria. Ita regular correspondence from Washington and Richmond are features of peculiar interest, as attested by the cases ness with which they are read and copied by other papers, while its editorial depart ment, conducted with reference to the pest interests of the city. State and country, will continue to advocate what is believed to be right, just, bonest and patriotic. With a view to the interests of merchants, farmers, and all interested, its commercial columns are carefully edited and its market reports are acknowledged by all to be faithful and accurate. Through all this section of the State and in all parts of the country where Virginians have located, there will the CAZETTE generally be found, and thus as an advertising medium it has few equals outside the large cities. In the household, counting room and workshop, it is an ever welcome visitor, acceptable alike to old and
